Singers, actors and public performers generally are able to speak with much greater ease and comfort in a building lighted with electricity than in one where gaslight is used. In the former case the temperature of the whole building is more equal and the risk of catching cold is consequently diminished. The speaker is cooler, does not perspire, his throat is not parched, and his voice is less liable to get husky. It is said that since the introduction of electric light public performers are in much better voice than they were before.

TRICKS OF "CHAMPION FAINTER

One of His Most Successful Wasto Faint in Presence of Wedding Party. A fraud on a lady has just come to light on the details of which much time and care must have been expended, and yet the profits amounted only to 8 shillings.

A man, who described himself as a ship's mechanic called on the lady at her residence at Putney. He displayed a most intimate knowledge of the famlly, and stated that two letters had been found in a berth on a German liner addressed to her two brothers, who were in Australia. He said that he had been to the London office of these gentlemen, the addresses of whom he mentioned, and added that he had been told to call on her, as a telegram had come asking for the letters to be forwarded at once.

He said that the third mate of the liner had the letters, and gave the lady an address in Hamburg to write to. He added that his expenses had been 3 shillings, which the lady gave him, promising to communicate with him later. Inquiries afterward proved that there was no such third mate and no such liner. It is perhaps due to universal education that frauds of this nature are increasing, as opposed to crimes of violence. There is one man, for example, known as the "champion fainter." He never asks for money; he merely faints on your doorstep. He is almost invariably taken in and given a good meal, and in many cases money is pressed upon him.

One of his feats was to faint outside house in which a wedding party was assembled. He was tenderly looked after, was given champagne, and wished the newly married pair good luck in a neat speech.

A man who lived on his wits noticed that lamps were being used in a house. while all the others in the row were burning gas. He deduced that something had gone wrong with the meter, and called early next morning "from the company." Under his directions the family distributed themselves in the various rooms, ready to apply matches to the burners at a signal, while he stood at the meter. Experiment after experiment ended in failure, and the family were moved from room to room, while the "gas man" made the most of his opportunities. He eventually left with a good haul, and instructions to wait until he sent the workmen.-London Mail.

OPINION OF THE EDITOR OF THE "NEBRASKA FARMER."

He Expresses His Approval of American Emigration to Canada. During the winter months the head of the family consults with the other members as to the prospects for the future, and doubtless one of the most interesting topics discussed is that of moving to some district where it is possible to more easily secure what is necessary for a comfortable existence, where it is an easy matter to become possessed of sufficient farm land to assure a competence for the future. This not only interests the head of the family but every individual mem-Having before me the knowledge where he can secure a home with the expenditure of but little money, it is well for him to obtain all information possible regarding the productiveness of the land in the country that he may elect. For several years past a large number of Americans have removed to Western Canada, and as nearly as it can be ascertained almost all of these have expressed themselves satisfied with the conditions that exist there. During the past summer a number of the editors of farm papers throughout the United States made a personal visit on a tour of inspection, and the reports of these gentlemen prove intering reading. Mr. H. E. Heath, editor of the Nebraska Farmer, a paper enjoying a wide circulation, as well as the confidence of its subscribers, after giving some idea of the extent of this wonderful country, says:

"Western Canada is the last unoccupled and unimproved good agricultura land in America available to-day."

He then discusses its possibilities for raising live stock and the advantages it possesses for dairying, farming and wheat growing, and says, "What has been said about the country as to the ability of the soil, the vield of wonderful crops of wheat, is quite justibe says, referring to climate: "These people (skeptical ones) do not know or realize that altitude more than latitude makes climates; that large bodies of water, both fresh and salt, that never freeze over, exert a wonderful influence on climate. Another influence on climate, more potent than those named above, which applies more to the Alberta district, is the warm Chinook breeze from the Pacific Ocean, which is 600 or 700 miles nearer than Colorado or Wyoming, besides the Rocky Mountain range is not nearly so high nor half so far from the ocean as it is down in the States. "In further considering the climate of the Canadian prairies, we should not lose sight of the fact of the influence of the rains; the total average rainfall for the season is but 13.35 inches for the territories and 17.34 inches in Manitoba, and that the amounts falling between April 1 and Oct. 1 are respectively 9.39 inches and 12.87 inches or about three-fourths of the entire rainfall. From the middle of June to the middle of July there are over two hours more daylight in every twenty-four hours than there is in Nebraska. The main reason why Western Canada wheat grows to such perfection is the effect of solar light, or longer period of sunshine it gets each day. This is what makes seeds or grain more perfect, grown in this country than elsewhere. This extraordinary rapid growth of vegetation under the influence of this long continued sunshine exceeds anything known in lower latitudes. "We do not wish it understood that wheat alone is the main product of this country; it leads in that, yet it is destined to become famous for its cattle, horses and sheep and for its dairy products. We saw more and larger bands of cattle and sheep grazing in Assinibola and Alberta than we ever saw on the western plains of the United States. One band of cattle numbering 5,000 head were grazing on the rich grass and sheep without num
